

EDITOR'S NOTE

Although it has not been our policy to reprint articles, an important exception has been made in this number of the BULLETIN. In this regard members will be particularly interested in the paper by Dr. Pollack. In it he presents some of his opinions concerning the practice of forensic psychiatry to which he alluded when he accepted the Presidency of the Academy in Pittsburgh in October.

The practice of including a paper written by a law student as a requirement in a course or seminar in psychiatry and the law will be resumed in the next number of the BULLETIN. Those members who are teaching in schools of law are urged to submit suitable papers for possible publication.

This marks the final Editor's Note. In subsequent numbers editorials by members of the Editorial Staff will be published. For this reason I wish to take this opportunity to acknowledge all the help I have received from my Assistant, Mrs. S. S. ("Polly") Odom. Without her, the BULLETIN would not have met with the success that it has.
